

Mr. Robert G. Riley, Jr.
Chief Executive Officer
Riley Resource Group

- Feed Energy Company
- FEC Solutions
- Riverhead Resources
- Decision Innovation Solutions

As CEO of Riley Resource Group, Robert G. Riley, Jr. is a proponent for balanced and sustainable systems, including agriculture, environment, innovation, business, and government. Advocating long-term perspectives, he works to create synergy and manage polarities within and between many entities, including his business interests, and various non-profit, institutional and governmental agencies in which he is involved.

In 1986, Bob purchased Feed Energy and immediately began the process of building a feed ingredient company with products developed on innovation, research and sound science. The success of the company is a testament to that strategic approach. In 2006 he formed FEC Solutions to pursue opportunities within the biofuel industry. Then in 2009, Riley both started Riverhead Resources and became a strategic advisor and investor in Decision Innovation Solutions (DIS). Riverhead provides experts in proven business systems. Decision Innovation Solutions specializes in stochastic data analysis and dynamic risk-based modeling. Bob has worked for more than 40 years in the fats and oils industry. He is asked to speak frequently about the seven essential capitals of sustainable systems, which pave the way for our future. These include feed, food, and fuel production, government policies, and the role of innovation today and tomorrow.

Bob is active in many professional, state and community organizations that reflect his interests, including:

- Leader, American Feed Industry Association
- Director, Iowa Poultry Association
- Director, Iowa Partnership for Economic Progress (IPEP) o Chair, Iowa Innovation Corporation
- Trustee, The Nature Conservancy in Iowa
- Director, Community Foundation of Greater Des Moines
- Leader, Capital Crossroads Initiative o Co-Chair, Natural Capital

Term: 2016
